In Matthew 25:31-46, Jesus reveals that the final judgment will not be based merely on what people profess with their lips, but on how they loved Him through the hungry, the thirsty, the stranger, the sick, and the forgotten. The passage challenges us to recognize Christ hidden in the faces of those who suffer, reminding us that every act of mercy is ultimately an act of love toward the Lord Himself. It is a sobering yet hopeful message: when our hearts are transformed by God's love, that love naturally flows into concrete acts of compassion, preparing us to hear the words we long for most, "Come, you who are blessed by my Father; inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world." (Matthew 25:34)

En Mateo 25:31-46, Jesús revela que el juicio final no se basará simplemente en lo que las personas profesan con sus labios, sino en cómo lo amaron a Él a través del hambriento, del sediento, del forastero, del enfermo y del olvidado. Este pasaje nos desafía a reconocer a Cristo oculto en el rostro de quienes sufren, recordándonos que cada obra de misericordia es, en última instancia, un acto de amor hacia el mismo Señor. Es un mensaje sobrio pero lleno de esperanza: cuando nuestro corazón es transformado por el amor de Dios, ese amor se convierte naturalmente en gestos concretos de compasión, preparándonos para escuchar las palabras que más anhelamos oír: «Vengan, benditos de mi Padre; hereden el Reino preparado para ustedes desde la creación del mundo» (Mateo 25,34).

We are asking that you wrap the gift and attach the ornament to make sure the gift goes to the right family.
Please bring it to the office by Monday, December 14th to ensure we can get the gifts to the family in time for Christmas.
Thank you so much for helping us provide a Joyful Christmas for these families.

Christ the King: Who Really Reigns in Our Hearts?

The Solemnity of Christ the King invites us to contemplate a King unlike any other. His crown is made of thorns, His throne is a cross, and His greatest victory is accomplished not by destroying His enemies but by giving His life for them. Jesus is not the kind of king the world expects, but He is precisely the King the world desperately needs.

We live in a world where so many things compete for the throne of our hearts. Money, power, political loyalties, personal ambitions, technology, and even our wounded pride can gradually take the place that belongs to God alone. We may faithfully attend Mass on Sunday, yet allow anger, resentment, selfishness, and worldly concerns to govern our lives throughout the week.

The most important question, therefore, is not whether Jesus is King. The question is: Is Jesus truly MY King?

If Christ is my King, then my pride must kneel, my grudges must surrender, and my selfishness must give way to generosity. If Christ reigns in our families, forgiveness will become more important than winning arguments. If Christ reigns in our community, compassion will overcome indifference, and service will become more important than recognition.

Perhaps some of us are struggling with loneliness, declining health, financial difficulties, or painful family relationships. Remember that our King is not a distant ruler who is unfamiliar with suffering. He reigns from the cross, where He transforms suffering into redemption, brokenness into grace, and despair into hope.

As we celebrate this beautiful solemnity, let us examine our hearts and dethrone whatever has taken the place of Christ. Let us give Him not merely our Sunday worship but our entire lives.

For the greatest tragedy is not that we have no king, but that we spend our lives serving the wrong ones. And the greatest victory is not conquering the world, but allowing Jesus Christ to conquer our hearts.
